Spring is riding the wind tonight.
There's an air in the restless air.
I must be off in the early light,
And it makes no difference where.

Far away on the rim of things
There's a voice that I used to know,
Upon my shoulder the sprouting of
wings,
And a vision longing to go.

(Lines were meant for simple souls
Content with the same each day,
But I must have a house that rolls—
My way is the sea-gull's way.)

Up with the author, down with the tide,
And out on the long, blue track,
Tossing a dream that we all must
ride.

What though we never come back?
"See a fall" by K. Leslie Spaulding.

ARDENODE

Mr. S. W. Watson returned home
Saturday evening after spending a few days with friends in Calgary.

We are sorry to report the serious illness of Baby Andy, the son of Mr.
and Mrs. Pavcek, who was rushed to the Holy Cross Hospital Friday night
and is under the care of Dr. Price.
We sincerely hope he may recover.

Mrs. Wm. Knott spent Saturday
visiting the big city.

Mr. John Swiney who has been a well known fellow in Ardenode having worked on the railway here for a good number of years has decided to pull stakes. John is now considering taking unto himself a wife, and says
the district is too small so he is moving to Kootenai, where he can have a little more room to expand in his new adventure. We all wish him the best of luck.

We are still wondering the one
saying that our people need to tell us.
As Spring approached, young men fancy lightly turned to love, but that is not so with men here. He is a solidly drilled man, from war and tunes, but still travels on with spirit
in his step, "heart" also we think,
solidly recovered, strong, as a winner's motto. A great man, some day
"Nuff said."

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, you feel slow, drowsy,
poor stomach, you get constipated, harmful poisons go into the blood, and the world looks dark.

A more important reason than always get on the liver as well. It takes three good, old Capers Little Liver Pills to get the liver working. If bile flows freely and make you feel "up and up." Humane and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of natural bile but without any straining or strain! Stubbornly refuse anything else, the

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

At all Christian Science Churches
Next Sunday, the subject of the Lesson-Sermon will be "Man." The following is one of the Scriptural quotations

contained in the Lesson-Sermon:
"That the Lord said unto Samuel, Look not on his countenance, or on the height of his stature; because I have refused him; for the Lord seeth not as man seeth; for man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord
looketh on the heart" (1 Samuel 16:7)
One of the correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, is as follows (page 21): "Absorbed in material selfhood we discern, and refect but faintly the substance of Life or Mind. The denial of material selfhood aids the discernment of Man's spiritual and eternal individuality,
and destroys the erroneous knowledge gained from matter or through what are termed the material senses."

THE ROYAL BROADCAST

Sunday morning King Edward VIII delivered his first address as King to his people throughout the Empire. His voice came over clearly every word being heard with ease. It is not necessary to repeat his message that was heard by thousands. The outstanding feature was left, after his affectionate tribute to his father was "I am that man you learned to know and it will be my aim to do all in my power to help my fellow man. This he spoke as man to fellow man, not king to his subjects. This will make him no less the kinly sovereign.

The following article written by Fraser Hunt, a neighbor rancher bears out the same thought.
King of the People
Editor and Publisher carried a point table discussion by well known writers on world affairs. This is what Fraser Hunt, who knows King Edward, says of the new monarch.

"This new king has a real understanding of all Europe and all the world, and knows most of the rulers of the world, and I have, as I say, an inviolable belief that, conscious or other, this will work toward a better relationship with European powers, and possibly might work out some way for peace in Europe."

Chairman Fawcett—"Do you think he will rate in his history as the great Liberal King?"

Mr. Hunt—"I think he will certainly rate as the king of the twenty people of England. The war taught him, and went into the war when he was 18, came out at 22, nervous, shy, a boy who had seen a great deal of war at close hand, and who was deeply touched by this terrible slaughter. Ever since then he has been very deeply interested in the welfare of the most lovely people and the forgotten people of England, and the people of England themselves the lowest working people and the unemployed, have a mystical faith that somehow this man is their friend, and will be their king in a way that no other king has ever been."

CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAYS

Mr. Fairweather said that amounts running into hundreds of millions of dollars occur in the accounts of the Government, which owns the Canadian National System, and reappraise the accounts of the Railway. A whole lot of false ideas and wrong things are shown in public accounts, the other shown in the balance sheet of the Canadian National, and that to get the total one needs to add the liabilities of the Canadian National to the net profit of the Federal Government.

"On the distorted statement of the liabilities of the Canadian National," continued the speaker, "has arisen the misconception of enormous annual losses. People desiring to give public ownership a black eye by making a crack at the Canadian National along upon distorted figures hardly ever less than $100,000,000 per year but ranging upwards to truly astronomical figures obtained by Mr. Milton A. Harrison, President of the Security of Commerce Association, Inc., of $200,000,000 per year. The fallacy behind these figures can best be exposed by the simple illustration of a small business. Let us suppose a man has $100,000 invested in a business and that the revenues from his business are enough to pay his wage bill, the cost of all materials used, and to maintain his factory in good working condition, paying all taxes and public charges and leave over $200,000 per year. The ordinary man would say: My business has yielded me a $200,000 profit on my $100,000 investment. A business man who owns that National Railways says, 'Oh no, you'll have earned $60,000 on your $100,000 investment, and therefore your plant has lost you $40,000,' and your business must issue a note to pay out for this $40,000 loss and pay interest on it. This goes on for a period of years and you will see that in a relatively short time the business which in point of fact was making a small profit on the invested capital, is shown as a hopeless proposition."

The Canadian National Railways, from 1922 until well on into the depression in 1931, paid all its wages and materials on operating accounts, taxes, and all items of expense except interest on invested capital, including substantial provision for depreciation and retirement of property and amortization of bond discount. In fact all items of expense whether

Mr. and Mrs. Knapp were visitors to Calgary Tuesday of this week.

The Young People of Strathmore spent a social evening at Knapp's last week.

Most of the Hervey residents feel out of date since there are two new cars in the district.

One of the hockey fans is not so much interested in the hockey bell lately. May be the trained ear can hear other bells ringing.

A couple of young men from Lincoln were visitors to Hervey Tuesday and report the roads in their neighborhood blocked for the last two months.

Gade Bros. rent one section of land south of Strathmore.

A friend once met Michelangelo when he was at work on one of his famous statues. The man asked him what he was doing. The sculptor said, "I have retouched a part of one statue, polished another; I have soldered a statue in one place, and brought out lines of a statue in another; I have given just a little more expression to the lip and more energy to the line." The man said, "But after all, these are mere trifles," to which Michelangelo replied, "As far as the sculptor is concerned, trifles make perfection, and perfection itself is no trifle."

It is more than possible that there are both young people and older people who are looking for perfection in school work and other work without giving sufficient attention to the trifles that make up the whole.

Stevenson expressed the value of trifles beautifully in "Little drops of water, little grains of sand, Make the mighty ocean, and the pleasant land."

DATED this 26th day of February, 1936.
MELVINS RODMAN & CO., Solicitors for Lady Frances Pail Archer-Shee, Executrix of the will of Sir Martin Archer-Shee, Deceased.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS AND CLAIMANTS

In the Matter of the Estate of Antoine Jacobine Josephine Weyers, late of Strathmore, Alberta, Deceased.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that all persons having claims upon the estate of the above named Antoine Jacobine Josephine Weyers, who died on the 26th day of March, 1935, are required to file with the undersigned by the 26th day of April, 1936, a full statement verified of their claim and any securities held by them, and that after that date the Executor will distribute the assets of the deceased among the parties entitled thereto having regard only to the claims of which notice has been filed or which have been brought to his knowledge.

PURIFYING DRINKING WATER

and 2 parts and us used for mortar and the inside wall is plastered with a rich cement mortar to make the cistern as water proof as possible. The bricks should be thoroughly soaked before being laid. The brick cistern makes neat job and by bringing the top in like the neck of a bottle a good tight cover is obtained. It is here where the skill of a brick layer may be required.

Wood makes a very good cistern. Its first cost is relatively low. Its great advantage is its resistance to alkali and it is fairly simple to install. The best plan probably is to buy the material ready sawn and planed from a lumber company. The staves used are 2 x 6 material and the edges are beveled to give the size of circle required but need not be tongued and grooved. A tank 10 feet in diameter and 12 feet deep gives a capacity of 7,000 gallons or 221 barrels. First band that circle the tank hold the staves in place the same as on a silo, and if needed hot tar or pitch is poured into the joints, especially the floor, to make the tank water tight. It is well to have the floor material tongued and grooved. Two inch planks with the joints well filled with pitch make a good covering for the tank.

Any water from an irrigation ditch, a storage reservoir, or from any other contaminated source should be filtered before it is put into the cistern. Clean sharp sand that is neither too fine nor too coarse makes a good filtering material for ordinary use. The water needs to run through two to three feet of sand and at the rate of about 20 gallons to each square foot of filter every 24 hours. A plan of this type of filter may be obtained by writing to this Station.

In addition to filtering it is a common practice to treat cistern water with chloride of lime and a question often asked is how much to use. The rate recommended is 25 grains for 100 gallons of water. On this basis a tank holding 5000 gallons would require somewhat less than 3 ounces of fresh chloride of lime to make it safe for drinking. One half a level teaspoonful of chloride of lime dissolved in a quart of water will treat a 40 gallon barrel of water. Chloride of lime should be purchased in small quantities and be kept tightly covered because it deteriorates quickly when exposed to light or air.

The 29th of February broke the London of the cold spell we have been going through since the first of the year. The thermometer climbed to the 40 mark above zero and all mankind rejoiced while the animal kingdom manifested their appreciation to the best of their ability.
